

Information Literacy

By Katelynn Leach

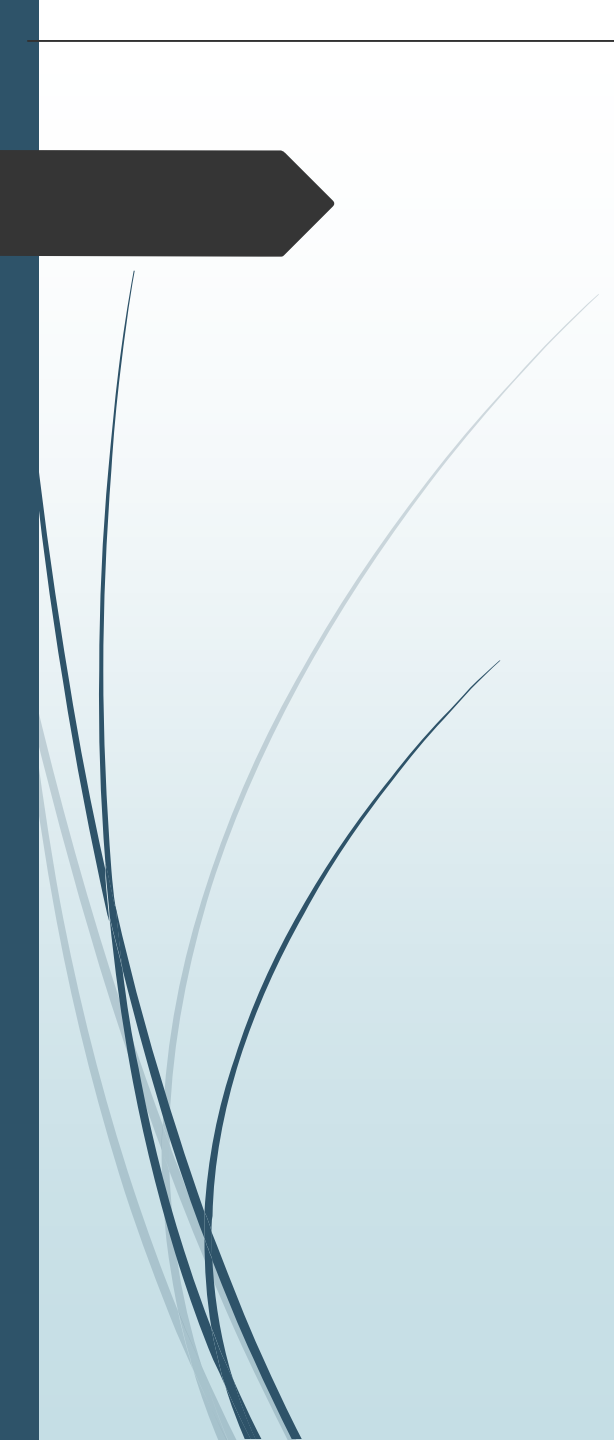

Overview

- ✓ What is Information Literacy and why is it important to you
- ✓ Difference in domain names
- ✓ What is E-Learning and why do you need to know it
- ✓ How to effectively use a search engine
- ✓ Different search engines you can use
- ✓ E-Learning websites

What is Information Literacy?

Information Literacy means that a person is able to:

- Identify when they need information
- Locate that information effectively
- Evaluate the website and information for reliability
- Synthesize the information to one's knowledge
- Present the information for others to understand
- Translate this information into new ideas
 - Source: Wesleyan
- You will be required to Identify, Locate, and Present this year.

Why is Information Literacy Important?

- Promotes Problem solving approaches
- Promotes Thinking skills
 - “Asking questions and seeking answers, finding information, forming opinions, evaluating sources and making decisions” (SILP)
- In the vast growing world, where more information is placed on the web at a rapid pace, students need to be able to know where to find valuable information that is true and valid.

What is a Domain?

A Domain is a string of letters and numbers used to identify a realm of control on the internet. Domain names are formed using the rules of DNS. This name hosts a website that the owner can place any information on. There are different tier level domains, top level domain include the generic level domains such as .com, .org. and .net, while second level domains are limited to users who want to connect to local networks.

Types of Domains

- ✓ .com – a “Commercial” website, anyone can buy these domains and place information on them, so make sure to evaluate all .com websites
- ✓ .org – an “Organizational” website, reserved for non-profit organizations and schools. Information is good but may be biased
- ✓ .net – A “Network”, used by internet service providers, can have good information if utilized correctly
- ✓ .gov – A “Government” website, only government agencies can use. Has good information
- ✓ .info – “Informational” website, anyone can obtain so need to filter through bad information
- ✓ .edu – “Educational” website, higher institutions only, had good information

The good vs. the bad websites

Good websites:

- ✓ Easy to navigate
- ✓ Good information
- ✓ Minimal grammar issues
- ✓ Sources are cited
- ✓ Pictures are minimal and pertinent
- ✓ Up to date
- ✓ Authors name or organization name is stated.

Bad websites:

- ✓ Hard to navigate
- ✓ Information is unreliable
- ✓ Grammar issues are noticeable
- ✓ Sources are not cited or cited incorrectly
- ✓ Loads of pictures
- ✓ Not up to date or date is unreasonable (i.e 2022 when it 2018)
- ✓ No author

Search Engines

- A search engine searches the WWW for information related to your search depending on specific information
 - Will also give pictures and videos related to keywords in search
- Different Search Engines - There are 3 types
 - Crawler
 - "Crawls" the internet using keywords and displays all results as links
 - Human Powered Directories
 - users submit websites to a directory, and the search is based off these websites. Good websites are more likely to be reviewed.
 - Hybrid Search Engines
 - Combines both Crawler and Human Powered directories and favors one over the other.

E-Learning

What is E-Learning

- E-Learning is learning through a medium online, using online educational practices such as online learning, web based training, and instructional technology

Why is E-Learning important?

- People all learn in different ways and E-Learning provides another platform for people to learn using differentiated instruction (i.e. how we learn best)

Help Slide #1

The screenshot shows a PowerPoint presentation slide titled "Search Engines". The slide content includes a list of bullet points and a diagram. The diagram features a large black arrow pointing right, with several blue lines extending downwards from its base, suggesting a search or flow process. The slide is displayed in a software window with a red title bar and a ribbon menu. The ribbon includes tabs for File, Home, Insert, Draw, Design, Transitions, Animations, Slide Show, Review, View, and Help. The "Format Background" task pane is open on the right side of the slide, showing options for fill, gradient, and background graphics. The status bar at the bottom indicates "Slide 8 of 58" and "79%" zoom.

Search Engines

- A search engine searches the WWW for information related to your search depending on specific information
 - Will also give pictures and videos related to keywords in search
- Different Search Engines - There are 3 types
 - Crawler
 - "Crawls" the internet using keywords and displays all results as links
 - Human Powered Directories
 - Users submit websites to a directory, and the search is based off these websites. Good websites are more likely to be reviewed.
 - Hybrid Search Engines
 - Combines both Crawler and Human Powered directories and favors one over the other.
